

Virginia Tech Gets Grant for Civil War Movie

October 25, 2007 - 6:40am

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) - A state commission is giving Virginia Tech's Civil War center a grant to produce a documentary on the historic battles.

The $350,000 comes from the Virginia Sesquicentennial of the American Civil War Commission. The Virginia Center for Civil War Studies will use the money produce a three-hour documentary that will go, without charge, to every school, library, and museum in the state in August 2009.

Virginia is planning a multiyear commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the war, which was fought from 1861 to 1865.

The center will work with Blue Ridge Public Television in Roanoke to create the documentary. It will consist of nine 20-minute segments for classroom use and cover issues like slavery, military campaigns and key players.

(Copyright 2007 by The Associated Press. All Rights Reserved.)

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) - A state commission is giving Virginia Tech's Civil War center a grant to produce a documentary on the historic battles.

The $350,000 comes from the Virginia Sesquicentennial of the American Civil War Commission. The Virginia Center for Civil War Studies will use the money produce a three-hour documentary that will go, without charge, to every school, library, and museum in the state in August 2009.

Virginia is planning a multiyear commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the war, which was fought from 1861 to 1865.

The center will work with Blue Ridge Public Television in Roanoke to create the documentary. It will consist of nine 20-minute segments for classroom use and cover issues like slavery, military campaigns and key players.

(Copyright 2007 by The Associated Press. All Rights Reserved.)